Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-17,19-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tendler [WO 98/706229].

Regarding claims 1,17,24,26 Tendler discloses an emergency locator device with a GPS interface that receives digital location data indicating the current location of the emergency locator device. Tendler further discloses a method where the control processor stores the data received from the GPS interface and upon detecting an emergency trigger the control processor retrieves the stored data from memory which includes the current location of the portable device, the called party number and vehicle identification data. Tendler further discloses a method where the control processor in the emergency locator device, upon detecting an emergency trigger initiates a 2-way communication link to the called station via the wireless telephone network and transfers the status data stored in the memory. Tendler further discloses the use of the emergency locator device for ordinary communications enabling the user to place regular cellular/PCS call under non-emergency condition. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claim 2,10 and 20, Tendler further discloses an interface to an external unit. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claim 3,11 and 21, Tendler further discloses a data converting means. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claim 4 and 12, Tendler further discloses a method for automatic dialing. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claims 5-8,13-16 and 22, Tendler further discloses hands free communication means. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claims 9 and 23, Tendler further discloses a cellular or personal communication system (PCS) network. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claim 19, Tendler further discloses the called party to be a pre-determined station to receive emergency data. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Regarding claim 25, Tendler further discloses the emergency informing apparatus being mounted on the vehicle. See background of invention and summary of invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 18 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tendler in view of Tognazzini [US 5,914,675].

Regarding claim 18, Tendler discloses a cellular phone based automatic emergency vessel/vehicle location system and all the limitations as claimed. Tendler is silent to disclose a method where an ordinary communication call in progress is interrupted upon detection of the emergency trigger Tognazzini teaches a method where an ordinary communication call in progress is interrupted upon detection of the emergency trigger. See Fig.2 and column 7, lines 9-67.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the above teachings of Tognazzini to Tendler in order to assist the user in the event of an emergency situation.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-26 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
